

WON THE STRAIGHT SERIES

The Hoosiers Close the Week with a Fine Record at the Bat and in the Field.

Rusie's Skill in Pitching Fulfills All that Has Been Said of It and Gives Promise of Excellent Work Hereafter—Other Games.

The Hoosiers won the fourth and final game of the series from the Washington team at the League Park yesterday afternoon. The victory, as on the previous day, was easily accomplished by reason of the superior playing of the home team at all points. The visitors were again very poor in the field, and barring Wilnot, none of the Senators could successfully gauge the terrific delivery of Rusie, who was in the box throughout the entire contest. On the other hand, Fenon was no puzzle to the big batters of the local club, and was hit hard and often. He had but little encouragement to do good work, however, and, all things considered, did as well as could be expected. The work of Wise at third, and Sweeney in right was wretched. These two players exchanged positions yesterday, but nothing was gained thereby so far as any one could see. They made six of the nine errors charged to their side, nearly all of them being expensive. Irwin and Myers both played well, but did nothing of any consequence with the bat.

The chief interest in the game, of course, centered in Rusie, and his work was in every way satisfactory to both the spectators and the management. His speed was remarkable, and his command of the ball as good as could be expected. Up to the ninth he had sent only three men to bases on balls, and gave only five altogether. He displayed much coolness at critical times, and never lost his head for a moment. Twice when balls were knocked to him with men on bases, he showed good judgment in holding the ball, and was quick and accurate. The hits secured off him were scattered, barring the third inning, when two singles and a double earned one run. He did well at the bat, too, making a nice single and a sacrifice, and got his base on balls by exercising good judgment. It was thought that he might lose his speed in the last part of the game, but such was not the case. He sent the balls over the plate like a shot, holding up remarkably well. Manager Bancroft and President Brush were much pleased with the young man, and it is quite likely that he will be seen in the box several times before the club leaves home. The team supported him in fine style. Bassett, Glasscock and Denny made remarkable plays. The former made a fine one-handed stop of a line hit, throwing the batter out at first and cutting off two runs, there being men on second and third bases, with two out. The errors made cost nothing and were excusable. Denny stopped a grounder that no other third baseman in the League would have touched. The out-fielders had but little to do but McGeechey's work with the stick and on the lines was especially fine. His home-run hit was down into the corner, not over the fence. Myers caught Rusie's delivery splendidly, and together the Hoosiers played a game that was hard to beat.

The opening inning was a blank, though Sullivan and Denny made hits after two were out. Fenon was unequal to the occasion, and failed to secure the necessary single. The Hoosiers started the ball in the second and kept it going rather lively during the remainder of the contest. Myers led off with a hit, McGeechey got one where he wanted, and drove the ball off like a bullet. The little center-fielder made a great effort to get it, but fell down, and the ball went to the corner of the field, the batter making the circuit before it could be returned. It was a splendid hit, and when the runner crossed the plate he was loudly applauded. Hines made a hit in the third, but no one scored. In the fourth the Hoosiers had everything their own way. Rusie went down on his first on balls, and reached third on Seery's two-bagger. Glasscock followed with a single and two men came home. Sullivan was given first by McGeechey, and he and Glasscock each advanced a base on Hines's sacrifice. Then a general mulling contest followed, and when the last man was finally retired the scorer marked up four for the Hoosiers. The fifth was a duplicate of the fourth. Indianapolis sending the same number around the circuit on one scratch hit, errors doing the rest. The visitors appeared to be unable to hold the ball, no matter how it came to them, and the local men went down to base about as they pleased. After this inning the visitors did better work, and no more runs were scored by the Hoosiers. A single, a stolen on and a passed ball gave Washington their first run. A double and a single earned the second, while a base on balls, a hit and two outs left the third and last man in the visitors' line. Had men on bases several times, but could not hit the ball, and they were left. The score:

BOSTON TAKES TWO FROM PITTSBURG.
 PITTSBURG, June 22.—Boston played two games here to-day, winning both. Attendance, 7,000. Morris and Clarkson, in the first game, pitched splendid ball, the latter striking out twelve men. The home team should have won in the seventh inning. They had three men on base and the out, but through stupid base-running they failed to score. Tom Brown's brilliant one-hand catch of a foul back of third base was the greatest feature, while Kuehne and Dunlap put up a great game. Carroll was hurt in the first by sliding. Score:

CLEVELAND, 8; NEW YORK, 6.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—The Giants were outplayed by the Cleveland to-day. The poor fielding of the visitors, Welch's wildness, and the good hitting of the home team won the game. Ewing's home-run drive over the fence, with three men on bases, in the fourth inning, was the longest hit ever made on the ground. Attendance, 4,000. Score:

CHICAGO, 5; PHILADELPHIA, 1.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Tener, another bench-warmer, did the business for Chicago to-day, holding the Philadelphia down to three strag-gling hits. Bullington pitched well, but Chicago was very lucky in placing their hits at the right time for run-making. Pfeiffer's play at second was very brilliant, eliciting great applause, otherwise the game was devoid of interesting features. Attendance, 2,500. Score:

LOUISVILLE BEATEN TWICE BY ST. LOUIS.

LOUISVILLE, June 22.—Louisville and St. Louis played two games here to-day, both of which were won by the visitors. Play on both sides was spirited throughout, and both games were taken on their merits. Ehret, in the first game, for Louisville, pitched with exceptional energy and effectiveness, and strained his arm so that he had to be relieved by Hecker at the end of the sixth inning. King's pitching was weak. In the second game Hudson was steady and effective, while Ewing was not fully up to his best work. Both teams held sharply, but there was no strong hitting on either side. St. Louis batted hardest, and to this largely the victories were due. In the second game, Louisville's base running was a feature, and prolonged the contest to eleven innings. In the first game Hecker took Ehret's place at the end of the sixth, and in the second Hecker took Robinson's at the end of the ninth. Score of first game:

President Davidson's paying off the Louisville club last night was much of a farce. Hecker, who is said to have got most, received $1.95. The rest were in debt to Davidson. This state of affairs was caused by the failure on the Eastern tour. The players have filed a protest with President Wickoff, and are in the meantime on their good behavior.

CINCINNATI, 11; KANSAS CITY, 8.

CINCINNATI, June 22.—The Cincinnati men to-day's game by their terrific batting. Smith pitched in magnificent form for the Cincinnati up to the seventh inning, when, the game being well won, he was taken out and Mullane substituted. The batting of McPhee and Keenan were the chief features of the game. Attendance, 4,200.

Standing of the Clubs.

The standing of the League teams is given below. It will be seen that the Hoosiers have pulled up again, and only need one game to go into sixth place, provided Pittsburgh should lose one. It should be remembered, however, that the local club has to meet Boston this week, while the Pittsburghs will play Washington, and Indianapolis may not be able to displace the Pennsylvania aggregation.

Yale comes out of the college championship once more with flying colors.

Burns, of Lowell, gave fourteen bases on balls, Tuesday, beside being hit for fourteen bases.

There were fifty-one base hits in the two association games at Philadelphia and Baltimore, Tuesday.

No two men in the profession have fallen off so much of late as Anson and Kelly, usually heavy hitters.

It apparently took Hoy quite a while to find out whether or not he had broken his neck when he fell down in his attempt to get McGeechey's liners over his head. The little fellow was pulling at his head all through the inning, and finally got it fixed to suit him.

Rusie seems to know where to throw the ball when he gets it. He cut off two men at second yesterday.

The Reading base-ball club, a member of the Middle States League, has disbanded on account of a lack of patronage.

O'Brien, released by the Washingtons, is batting hard and playing a perfect fielding game yesterday.

If Indianapolis could just break even with the League leaders this week the local public would be highly pleased. The Boston team is playing great ball.

Crooks, the heavy-hitting second-baseman of the Omaha, made four home runs off Malins, the St. Paul twirler, the other day, and he added to this pile a single.

The Minneapolis grounds are rather small, and in fourteen games thus far played in that city, the home club has made thirty-one home runs to seventeen for their opponents.

Memphis and Charleston having retired from the Southern League, an attempt will now be made to go on as a four-club organization—Atlanta, New Orleans, Mobile and Chattanooga remaining intact.

The Athletics have lost but two home games this season, to Brooklyn and to Boston, and in eight games played on the return from a disastrous Western trip, they won sixteen, fourteen of them in succession.

Not a single pitcher in the League would have attempted to get the ball when Denny stopped and threw to first in time to retire the batter in the ninth inning yesterday. It was really a remarkable play.

Four of the bases given by Rusie were to the first batter up. Command of the ball is all that the young man needs to make him a great pitcher. This will come in time, with proper training, and in Meyer's he has a fine coacher.

Only six hits were made off Keefe, the young left-handed pitcher of the Washingtons, at Boston, and the majority of them were well scattered. The youngsters struck Dan Brotherton out on three balls pitched, a feat never before accomplished this season.

The difference in the work of second baseman Kot, of Washington, and McGeechey, of the home team during the series just completed, ought to show every one that the latter is a superior player. The present price is 50 cents a ton, 2,540 pounds, per run of the mines. We have good houses at from $3 to $6 per month rent.

That was a fine play made by Glasscock when he retired Wilnot at second base yesterday. The batter sent a fly to center field. Bassett and Sullivan went to get it, but Sullivan, who was playing down near first, sprang forward and with his left hand knocked the ball to the ground in time to pick it up and throw the runner out at first. The play out of two runs and was loudly applauded.
